Driver's Privacy Protection Act

The Driver's Privacy Protection Act ["DPPA"] prohibits the release and use of certain personal information from state motor vehicle records [See: 18 U.S.C.A. § 2721 - 2725]. A person who knowingly obtains, discloses, or uses personal information, from a motor vehicle record, for a purpose not permitted by the DPPA is liable to the individual to whom the information pertains, who may bring a civil action in a United States district court [See: 18 U.S.C.A. § 2724(a)]. The court may award actual and punitive damages, reasonable attorneys' fees and other litigation costs reasonably incurred, and such other preliminary and equitable relief as the court determines to be appropriate [See: 18 U.S.C.A. § 2724(b)].

The attached Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Accident Report is being disclosed to you pursuant to 18 U.S.C.A. § 2721(b) (6). This is based on your representation that the information is for use by an insurer in connection with claims investigation activities, which is a permissible use under the DPPA. You may re-disclose this information only for a use permitted under 18 U.S.C.A. § 2721(b) [See: 18 U.S.C.A. § 2721(c)]. If you re-disclose personal information covered by the DPPA, you must keep, for a period of 5 years, records identifying each person or entity that receives information and the permitted purpose for which the information will be used and must make such records available to the state motor vehicle department upon request.
